

Explore Tiny Holes

Think About Tiny Holes:

1. Why are these tiny holes here? What purpose do they serve?
2. Do they need to be so tiny? What if they were bigger?
3. Can you think of any other tiny holes not pictured?
4. Which of these holes are found in nature and which holes are human-made?
5. How are tiny holes in nature useful to people?

Extensions:

1. Go on a tiny hole search. List what you find.
2. Play with clay or playdough and explore different the different kinds of objects you can use to make tiny holes.
3. Make-up a story about how tiny holes may have been invented. Write it down or draw a picture about your story.